PARENT/GUARDIAN(S) REQUEST FOR HOME-SCHOOL INSTRUCTION POLICY

The East Providence School Committee recognizes the right of parents to utilize home schooling as an alternative method to comply with the State Compulsory Attendance Law. Some parents, either for personal or religious reasons, may choose to educate their children at home. Any parent intending to carry out their child or children's educational program through home school is to comply with State Law, Chapter 16-19-2.

Parents wishing to exercise their right to educate a child or children at home must submit written notification of intent to the East Providence School Committee through the Assistant Superintendent, as soon as said intent is decided by the parents. Upon submission of the written intention, parents may proceed with their chosen Home School Program subject to annual renewal approval by the School Committee. The Assistant Superintendent will then submit the letter of intent to the School Committee for approval at the next School Committee Meeting following receipt of the letter. Every effort shall be made to expedite the attainment of School Committee actions on such a request, and parent/guardians will then receive official notification of the approval.

The letter of intent will reflect that the parent(s) or guardian(s) shall comply with Title 16-19-2 requirements of the General Laws of Rhode Island. The educational program must teach subjects in the English language substantially to the same extent as subjects are required to be taught in the public schools including: reading, writing, geography, arithmetic, the History of the United States, the History of Rhode Island and the principles of American Government. Parents must maintain instructional attendance records as required by State of RI Law and submit these records to the East Providence School Department by August 30. A home schooling year must be substantially equal to that required by law in public schools. The School Committee requires some type of evaluation component that will accommodate the preferences of parents for certain mechanisms for measurement which may take the form of a report card, written evaluation, dated work samples or other means of evaluation.
